Key Conference

Knowledge Empowers Youth (KEY) Conference is an opportunity where juniors ages 14-21 have the ability to not only develop leadership skills that can be used in their future, but also a place where they are able to gain new friendships, experience a new college campus and expand their knowledge on the current issues of the agricultural industry. The weekend event is held in the summer at a different major university each year to give youth a feel for a college setting and to experience what that college offers.

This year the AJSA is partnering with the American Gelbvieh Junior Association and the American Junior Simmental Association to have a joint conference. It is called Big Team, Big Dreams. The Summit IGS Youth Leadership Conference will be July 19-22 in Fort Worth, Texas.

Only 100 participants are being accepted so register so if interested register as soon as possible. Contact shelby@shorthorn.org if you have any questions or check out the AJSA website.
